

Two Sides Facts

Reasons for Family Forest Ownership in the United States

According to the U.S. Forest Service, two-thirds of private forest land in the United States is owned by non-corporate owners, the vast majority of whom are families and individuals. They own their land for many purposes, most of which center around the amenity values their forests provide.

Primary reasons why families and individuals own forest land, 2006

