Figure 1. Ecosystem goods and services of sustainably managed forests

Sustainably managed forests produce much more than wood. Sustainable management reduces the risk of the forests being converted to other land use, thereby also sustaining various goods and services.